

I will be working to do what I can to stop media consolidation. Sinclair's ownership of 25% of TV stations is far too much, especially considering how they are not following broadcast rules of presenting both sides of a political question.

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them.
